

Seminars for the Safe Transportation of Dangerous Goods By Air

Many dangerous goods can be safely transported by air. However, if prepared improperly there is a great danger presented to all that come in contact with these shipments.

In addition, companies and individuals face stiff fines, and even criminal penalties, if the applicable regulations are not followed. In the year 2000 alone the FAA collected over $7,000,000.00 in monetary penalties regarding improperly shipped hazardous material.
